MARK MURPHY: Murphy's Mood
With special guests Pete and Conte Candoli

"He is my equal" — Ella Fitzgerald

"For decades, the question what exactly is a jazz singer has had two easy answers: Betty Carter and Mark Murphy." — New York Post

Mark Murphy (born 1932) has carved out a legacy as a consummate Jazz Vocalist and Lyricist. He carries the improvisational torch with his masterful scat style, while his performances are rooted in a Jazz sensibility. He has also penned Vocalese lyrics, reworking songs such as Oliver Nelson's Stolen Moments and Red Clay by Freddie Hubbard.

Murphy is joined by Pete and Conte Candoli, renowned west coast studio musicians, who have performed on hundreds of acclaimed albums and feature films. Mark Murphy performs in many genres, but his legacy is as the most creative Jazz singer of his generation. Having wowed audiences & critics, Murphy continues to impress, showcasing his lyrical interpretations of Jazz standards, his impromptu scats, and his distinct and artful voice.

FREDDIE HUBBARD: One of a Kind

"a barnstorming trumpet player... triumphantly volatile"
—John Pareles, New York Times

Trumpet player Freddie Hubbard cemented a powerful reputation as a bebop and hard-bop player, but is also famous for playing on some of the most influential albums of the post bop era. His recording "Ready For Freddie" solidified him as one of the most innovative and dynamic trumpet players alive. Its follow-up, the critically acclaimed album "First Light," not only won him his first Grammy Award, but secured both his jazz status and mainstream appeal. Known throughout his career as a passionate, yet bold and ferocious, trumpeter, Hubbard constantly adapts and updates his style with a seemingly effortless poise, through his individual talent and powerful grace.
